

Parent Involvement

How can parents be involved in Riley County schools?

Parents can become involved in many ways. Simply taking an interest in their child's education is a beginning. Riley County Grade School holds a Back-to-School night each August, along with parent/teacher conferences, science fair, school carnival, and at least two family academic nights throughout the school year that can help parents become more involved in the school district.

Parent Involvement Policy and School-Parent Compact

Each Title I school receives input from parents for the development of a parent involvement policy and a school-parent compact.

The parent involvement policy explains how the school plans to work with parents to review and improve parent programs and describes how parents can participate in planning these programs.

The school-parent compact outlines how parents, the entire school staff, and students will share the responsibility for improved student academic achievement and the way in which the school and parents will build and develop a partnership to help children achieve the state's high standards.

Title I Parent Advisory Committee

The school is continually monitoring the implementation of the Title I program and welcomes input from parents, school staff, and community members regarding its current and future Title I programs. If you would like to participate on the school's Title I parent advisory committee, please contact the school office.
